CAVALRY POST

appropriation of $200,000 heretofore made, not to exceed $400,000, subject to the appropriations to be made thereafter by congress, making a total of $600,000, the expenditure of which was authorized for this work.

No expenditures were made or contracts awarded under the above authority because of the fact that the exact location of the post and the complete garrison had not been determined upon by the war department.

On Nov. 20, 1911, a board of officers was appointed to submit to the chief of staff recommendations relative to the location and construction of posts in the department of Hawaii. This board, after considering all the facts in the case, and taking into consideration previous reports, reached the conclusion that the cavalry part of the proposed permanent garrison of the Hawaiian islands should consist of one regiment of cavalry instead of two squadrons, as formerly decided upon. This recommendation was approved by the Secretary of War, Dec. 22, 1911.

On Dec. 27 the Secretary of War directed the quartermaster general to commence the construction of barracks and quarters necessary for a regiment of cavalry at the Schofield barracks reservation, but the question having arisen as to the legality of constructing accommodations for more than two squadrons of cavalry under the authority above cited, the Secretary of War on Jan. 3 approved the recommendation of this office to construct on the Schofield barracks reservation accommodations for regimental headquarters and two squadrons of cavalry, work to be done by purchase of material and hire of labor.

A special study was made of conditions in the Hawaiian islands and plans prepared with a view to the construction of barracks and quarters under special systems of construction, work to be done by purchase of material and hire of labor, under experienced officers of the quartermaster's department, with a view to materially reducing the cost of construction. It was believed that if this work could be done by purchase of material and hire of labor, and by contract, as might appear to the best interests of the government, as was contemplated, that accommodations for more than two squadrons of cavalry could be provided for the $200,000 above authorized.

However, in view of the fact that congress did not appropriate the $400,000 estimated for, it became necessary to enter into contracts for material and labor as authorized by the said act of June 25, 1910, above quoted, with the result that considerably higher prices will have to be paid than if cash funds were available for the purpose, and it will not therefore be possible to construct accommodations for a full regiment with the $200,000 authorized. An estimate to complete the amount originally asked for ($672,750) is therefore submitted.—J. B. Aleshire, Major General, United States Army, Chief of the Quartermaster Corps.
